How it Works:

- Structured rotations: participants will be seated at tables, and the event will kick off with a brief welcome and introduction. Following that, each participant will have a fixed amount of time (usually 2 minutes each) to engage in a conversation with the person seated across from them.
- Networking rounds: a bell will signal the end of each round, prompting participants to move to the next table to meet a new person. This structured format ensures that everyone has the opportunity to interact with a diverse group of individuals.

- Business card exchange: Bring plenty of business cards to share your contact information quickly. This event is all about making efficient connections, and business cards are a valuable tool for staying in touch.
- Casual environment: while the setting is professional, the atmosphere is relaxed and conducive to open conversations. Be prepared with a brief introduction about yourself, your professional background, and what you are looking to gain from the event.
- Follow-up opportunities: after the speed networking rounds, there may be opportunities for open networking or a social hour where you can continue conversations with those you connected with during the structured rounds.
