Join The Jersey Cyber Security Centre to take part in a mock cyber incident scenario event, focussing on the SME market. The event will be hosted by Lynne Capie from Soteria Communications and an advisory panel from The Jersey Cyber Security Centre (JCSC) Matt Palmer, JT Global Peter Lescop and Sammie from The Jersey Office of the Information Commission (JOIC).

The event will take place at NatWest International Library place between 13:30-16:00.

Prior to attending the event, please ensure that you have completed the benchmarking survey on behalf of your organisation.

Please come to the event prepared to contribute and take part in the mock scenario exercise.

We will apply the Chatham House Rule to all of the events and will create an environment where all participants are encouraged to share their experiences and develop plans to mitigate the fictitious scenario that emerges during the event.

After the event, we will be hosting individual drop-in sessions, available to book by organisations via the link below. The drop-in sessions will be hosted by Jersey Cyber Security Centre, JT Global, Soteria and The Jersey Office of the Information Commission and are an opportunity for organisations to ask questions about specific challenges or issues relating to their cyber security.

Thank you to Jersey Business and Chamber of Commerce for their support in engaging their networks, members and clients.

This event is kindly sponsored by JT Global.
