Join Leadership Jersey for an enlightening evening with Dr. Eve Poole as she delves into the fascinating intersection of artificial intelligence (AI), biomimicry, and leadership in her talk titled "Robot Souls".

In an era where AI transitions from the realms of Science Fiction to Science Fact, questions arise: Have we truly grasped the fundamental design principles underlying AI? While biomimicry has driven much innovation in science, medicine, and technology by emulating nature, our attempts to replicate human intelligence in AI reveal glaring gaps.

Dr. Poole will unravel the value hidden within what's often dismissed as 'junk code' in our AI endeavours. By exploring these neglected aspects, she'll shed light on the essence of human cognition and its implications for the future of technology and leadership.

This thought-provoking talk will challenge conventional notions of AI while providing insights into how leaders can navigate the evolving landscape of work in an AI-dominated world.
