Law at Work - The Human Operating System: Building a Culture Where Health & Safety Thrive

08:30 - 09:30 | 16/09/2025 | Kingsman Executive Office Suites - deCarteret House 7 Castle Street JE2 3BT Saint Helier I £20

Book now →

Is your workplace culture protecting your people — or putting them at risk?

Book here

Too often, health and safety is seen as a checklist or compliance exercise. But real safety goes deeper. It depends on culture: the “human operating system” that shapes how people think, behave, and look out for one another every day.

This practical breakfast briefing will cut through the theory and show you how to embed health and safety into your organisation's DNA. You’ll leave with clear, actionable steps to build a culture where wellbeing thrives, risks are reduced, and people feel empowered to speak up.

What will be covered:

- Why culture is the hidden driver of workplace health and safety
- How leadership and everyday behaviours influence safety outcomes
- The role of psychological safety in preventing risks and supporting wellbeing
- Practical tools to move beyond compliance and strengthen your culture

Who should attend:

 Business leaders HR professionals Managers and supervisors responsible for people and performance

Why attend:

Health and safety isn't just about rules — it's about people. By understanding the culture connection, you'll be better equipped to protect your workforce, boost engagement, and create a stronger, safer organisation.

Who's speaking?

- Khurt Slight, H&S Business Manager – Law At Work

Ticket includes:

 Breakfast and refreshments Expert-led session with practical takeaways Opportunity for Q&A and networking

Spaces are limited – book now to secure your place.